

Brandy Boudreaux

December 11, 2017

Brandy is my precious wife, my most precious friend. The spark that drives me and the source of all my comforts. I can never begin to fully describe what Brandy is to me. She is a faithful friend, a devoted wife, an outstanding mother. She deserves endless praise and truly I have lost everything in losing her, only to have it replaced with an imitation happiness. I could always count on Brandy to be my sympathetic shoulder when I needed her. I never worried that she would judge me or hold me in contempt. I've never felt more at ease around another soul. And truly I feel that something incorporeal wound between us and tied us together forever. Brandy has always been a delicate thing that I needed to protect, but strong enough to brace me so I couldn't fall. In all my time as a man I have never been overly worried about any financial struggle, the car breaking down, Christmas money being tight, excessive work schedules or the challenges of raising the boys because I knew that wherever we wound up, we would all have each other and most importantly I would have her, As long as she was there with me in my bed each night I had hardly a concern in the world. Brandy was my light house to guide me through any tribulation, and it hardly took her effort. Brandy is easily loved, instantly forgiven of any offense, and indescribably beautiful inside and outside. If ever I struggled to find God or gods in my life I only ever had to look at her face. For me she was the pinnacle of creation.

“ Words really can't explain the person Brandy was inside and out. She always saw the good in people and she was a hardworker. Whatever task or situation that came up she would go the extra mile to make sure it was done the right way. Isaac and Ivan was her world. Of all the great things she did being a mommy and wife were the most important things to her. I remember the boys first day of school, she shared tears of joy just knowing they were starting a new adventure.

Rest in Paradise Angel 🙏

“ I shared a few good memories with her walking around laughing and letting the kids play games. Sharing cotton candy and son cones and just enjoying each other's company at our festivals at school. Even have a picture of You and EJ making cookies on Thursday together. You were always smiling and even though we only knew each other a few months the one thing I knew for sure about you was how much you loved your boys. If I would've known Monday was the last time I'd see you I'd have made sure to tell you how kind and caring you were. I'm so sorry for the kids to the family and friends for the loss of not having you in those precious lives any longer. I will miss seeing your beautiful smile at school each day at drop off. Rest in paradise Brandy.

“ My favorite memory of brandy is when she lived with us for a little bit to homeschool me and one day i kept getting an smart mouth with her. So she brung me outside and tied me to a tree till i straightened up. She was just sitting on the porch luaghing her butt off at me. I loved those days i felt like i had a bestfriend and sister all in one. She was a happy beautfiul bright soul that made everyones lifes better. I will always miss her ❤️

“ Brandy, you were such a bright light in the world. Even if you didn't believe it. No matter what was going on, you were always so positive. We did know each other all that long, but became somewhat fast friends because we shared some things in common. I will always remember your beautiful smile, and the amount of love you had for your boys and Travis. I still can't believe you're gone. I will think of you every day and talk to you every day. I love you.

“ It's rare in life that you find people who you just click with and fall in love with them but that's what happened when I met Brandy. It was a 1 in a million we would ever met but I'm internally grateful to have known her even if it was only for 4 months and 4 days and on opposite sides of the world from each other. We shared a lot together, we laughed, we cried, we talked about everything and anything and we gamed together. She was always there to listen when I needed it the most and vice visa. 4 months was not enough time to have known this beautiful woman. She was a loving friend and devoted wife and mother. She's going to be greatly missed. Brandy, may our soul get the honour of meeting again. Rest in peace - I love you babe. :(<3 I'm deeply sorry for your loss Travis, to her children Ivan and Issac, to her family, her friends and to anyone who may of known her.

“ Brandy was the most gentle humble soul id ever had the honor of loving. She was a great friend and was all about equality and fairness. One time at work I was being picked on and had convinced myself it was normal or ok and brandy came to me one night and said so and so doesn't talk to me that way so I don't know why they think its ok to speak to you that way...I don't like the way she talks to you she said...and she pushed me to stand up for myself. She was always strong like that. I just wish she would've let me be strong for her when she needed it. God rest and bless you you dear sweet soul I love you to the moon and back girl you have forever touched my soul and I will do what ever I can to help Travis and Isaac and Ivan I promise you that. Until next time my love fly high! 🙏
