“ Oh, Brian. My heart broke into a thousand pieces when I got that call. How can it be? Growing up, we were always together. I could always pick up the phone to call and ask for advice or just to unload. I knew when I needed to escape, you'd never turn me away. You were my strength. I miss you so much. I know you're with mom and dad. Is it selfish of me wanting you back? Everything hurts. Every memory, I find myself pushing away. I still hear your voice. Fly high big brother. Until we meet again!
