“ My mother worked her fingers to the bone her whole life raising her children on her own for many years. She was an amazing mother who loved life, the outdoors we would camp out every summer and she would go home take a shower go to work and come back to the camp! She loved hiking and nature and the waterfalls in TN!! I'll never forget her smile, her laugh, and she never cried nor ever complained about anything! She had the soul of an Angel, I always knew was very special which she still is/was! She loved to dance and loved music! I remember her and my little sister Korri, would dance for hours and I was always too shy bc I couldn't dance like they could 😞 Talking about a workout! She had many struggles through life, life beat her down when it child but she would just wipe it off and get right back up! She was the strongest woman I've ever known in my life! I remember when I was 17 and she had night her very first home, the car broke down and was in the shop, she would get up, get ready with her make up sheets looking so good, she would walk dental miles across Twitter and work a 12 hour shift and walk back home. She did this for so long until we were able to save up every files we could to get the vehicle back from the shop! I knew my mom had to be struggling so bad inside, I would leave her notes of scriptures so when she came home Or when she would wake up she would see them and they would bring her comfort and give her the strength to keep going! She never gave up, she had faith so strong even when life kicked her down, she knew God would make a way every single time! When we moved her back home to Alabama my mother and I were blessed to share many many times Tiger going for rides so she could show me everywhere and everything she loved and missed so dearly including family for so many years! We're had lots of fun together that we were blessed enough to make up for all of the hard times we ever went through growing up, none of that ever mattered again! Thank you, praise God, thank you Jesus we were saved together just a short few months ago! All the blessings God gave me to be able to take care of my mother till the very end, I can not thank my father in heaven enough and I know without a doubt
