“ With my forever deepest sympathy,
Donna was a friend I met in OB yoga class. She was always bringing cards for various events for people in our yoga class, she always championed for others and never complained. She would sit in her car until the very last minute before class on her oxygen, one day I ask her why didn't she bring it in? Vanity was one reason and she said it was heavy, so I ask her to let me bring in for her, that I loved hearing it(reminded me of a loved one that had recently passed away). After that she brought it in to our class every time she came. We are missing her smiling face, rest in peace my yoga friend,
