“ In a dusty, dark corner of a very old house,
sits the tall, wooden worn out clock.
It has seen its share of memories and pain, keeping perfect time with a tick and a tock.

From weddings to funerals, losses and gains, sorrows and days filled with fun.
What once was brand new, through the passing of days, has wrinkled and faded by sun.

Beautiful blue eyes with serenity of the sea,
Reflection of the sky's reflections of me,
My little hand in yours, my protector and my guide,
Don't walk too fast, Paw-Paw, for I am by your side

My eyes are your eyes and your heart is my heart,
We share so much likeness we were never apart,
You wouldn't tell me your stories of the Vietnam War,
But I felt all your pain as the enemies kept score.

Big strong shoulders not just to carry me but to carry the world too,
The strength inside of you for all you went through,
The peace you gave me knowing you would always love me,
And the kindness and happiness you gave me and I gave you.

No fear do you have or grudges do you hold, my big strong hero
So brave and so bold, a firm hand to hold me, a firm word shows the way
Your little girl forever it's the way it will always stay

The bond that we have I have never seen or felt before My face would light up when you would walk through the door
You tucked me in bed then turned off the light but I wasn't scared
Of the shadows in the night

After God took you away it was all in my dreams

And all that is left is my memories of you I know you are with me and in my heart; I'm with you too.

*With busy days past, the clock sits at its post as it has done for years before.
The breezes from the front door, infrequent at best, cease moving across the wood floor.*

*Tired now from its lifetime of work watching over the house, was this clock.
As the sun now sets on another arduous day, the peaceful clock gives its last tick and last tock.*

*Beautiful blue eyes with serenity of the sea,
Reflection of the sky's reflections of me,
My little hand in yours, my protector and my guide,
Don't walk too fast, Paw-Paw, for I am by your side.*

Love, Your Granddaughter; Autumn Elaine

“ What a GREAT brother. I am so proud of Jack for serving our country so I could have the freedom that we all love. Even though my family lived in Oklahoma, when we would come home it was always special to get to spend time with Jack and the family. We were always laughing and just having an awesome time. When Jack and Sandra moved to Orange Beach I would always look forward to going just to see Jack and laugh about some of the crazy things we did when we were younger. Even though I didn't see him a lot in the last few years, I have an emptiness but I know he is laughing and running around in Heaven and I WILL see Jack again so day. Then we can laugh and have fun in Heaven for ETERNITY. I am so happy for Jack because he is no longer in pain and suffering.
