“ Dad, I'm not sure how to deal with the pain I feel over losing you. I'm trying to remember what you've said and I can hear you speaking to me as I say it in my head. I'm going to miss your "Elvis" voice, the little chats we had and those looks with the laughter that followed. I remember how safe I felt as a child when you held me and said everything's gonna be alright and to be strong. I hope I've made you proud because I couldn't be prouder to have a Daddy who loved so unconditionally, who allowed me to learn from my own life choices. Stern yet loving and supportive. You taught me that love is not bound by blood alone. I will forever cherish every memory of you. I love you and just know that you will never be forgotten.

James is my Father in Law. I will miss him immensely. It seems like yesterday when I asked him permission to marry his daughter Angela. That was 13 years ago. He laughed and said if she chose me then he had absolutely no problem and he trusted her judgement! I will miss the conversations and sharing food from Steamers. He really liked the seafood there as do I. Jim loved his pets. It's a sign of a good spirit when animals trust you and love you. Scooter was always up on his lap when Jim was in the recliner. I had never seen a Guinea fowl before and I've travelled all over the world, he did like the unique creatures! As I said, I will miss him immensely as we all do, but I take comfort that he is now at peace and we will see each other again someday.

My Jim is at peace I am so thankful that you were never in pain. I still feel your presents here at home. Scooter is still trying to find you. He is watching after me like he watched over you. I miss you everyday since you left on your forever journey. As I always told you our days are numbered on earth and when Our time of living is over we will start on that heavenly journey home. Oh what a glorious day this will be. I am waiting for my flight to come in the sweet bye and bye
