“ The Konn family lived next door and I remember running over to watch TV on the first TV in our neighborhood. How magical. We were friends and neighbors all through school. When I decided to move to California, I bought his souped-up VW to make the trip with two other girls. He will always be in my South Milwaukee memories and I know he will be missed by all who knew him. God Bless. Tina (Konn) Coombe

“ Stories of my Uncle Jay were famous in our family. The two best stories were when Grandma was speeding home as young Jay was screaming in the car. When she was pulled over for going too fast, the officer took one look at her and one look at Jay and sent her on her way. The second was when my parents, Jay’s big sister, first started dating. Grandma would send little brother Jay along to chaperone.

I personally will always remember my Uncle Jay for his funny stories. Anytime we were with him, he would have a funny story, I should say he would have a hilarious story. I loved just listening to him talk about the “big kahuna” or his experiences in a doctor’s office or pretty much anywhere. Jay could turn any experience into the best story you every heard. His laughter and stories will be missed.
