

Stephen Morse

June 8, 2024

We are deeply saddened to announce that Stephen J. Morse passed peacefully June 8, 2024, surrounded in love. His peaceful passing is a small comfort during this difficult time, and we find solace in knowing he is now at rest.

In lieu of a memorial or funeral services please find this letter of comfort in remembrance of him. Steve definitely wouldn't want any of us sad but remembering his goofy faces and fun times shared. He always enjoyed the simple things like waking up at dawn for a strong cup of coffee, a tasty bite, or a good tune on the radio. Steve cherished good friends and memorable moments above all else. He delighted in sharing stories about the people he met and the places he visited, ensuring that his family and friends were always part of his adventures and experiences. In my opinion he was the inventor of the "original selfie" by turning that camera around and throwing an arm around you for a fun picture with a silly face or cool background. I'm sure a lot of us have one somewhere in our vault of picture memories.

He had a deep and enduring love for his wife, Karen. For over 40 years, they shared countless joyful moments and supported each other through challenging times, forming an incredible team. He often spoke of Karen with pride and affection, and their relationship was clearly a source of happiness and strength for him. Their love stands as a testament to the life they built together, one filled with love, laughter, and mutual respect.

Steve was a great Dad, he always made sure I was surrounded with love and protection. He patiently taught me how to drive and encouraged my love of music. Some of my fondest memories are of listening to him play the guitar, enjoying a cup of coffee and a bagel together or spinning me around on the dancefloor at my wedding. He always made me feel important to him. I hope we all find some comfort in the cherished memories we created together, reflecting on the countless moments of joy, laughter, and love we shared with him. Let us remember his warmth, his kindness, and the profound impact he had on each of our lives. Knowing how deeply he was loved and admired by all who had the pleasure of knowing him is a testament to his remarkable character. Though he will be greatly missed, his spirit will continue to live on in our hearts, inspiring us and reminding us of the great memories he left behind. May his memory be a guiding light in our lives, offering solace and strength during this difficult time.
