“ No words could fully express the magnitude of loss I have felt since you passed. You were the BEST in the part of my Best Friend since age 11. You were always strong, smart, brave, independent, sweet, and sassy. You were my hero in life. You had so many of the qualities I still yearn to aquire. Your honesty, loyalty, and unconditional love has meant the world to me through the years, even when I failed you. Your light that shine through your smile and laughter will be sorely missed by all. All that you have overcome through life - on your own and through God's grace and strength - will stand as a testament to what you hoped the world would see. May your spirit fly as free and light as you always deserved it to be. I'll miss you always, my hero, my beautiful best friend. Til we meet again, know that I I loved you with all my heart and soul. 💜💜💜💜💜💜

“ There are no words to express the heartbreak I'm feeling since you left this world to go be an angel in heaven. You were my other half, the one who knew everything about me, the one who was always there to pick me up when I was down, who made me smile when I was sad, who tried to present other perspectives when I couldn't see them, who could make me so mad one minute and have me laughing the next. You loved me unconditionally and were there when no one else was. The bond we had will never be replaced. I have a hole in my heart that is unrepairable that will always long to speak to you again. I know you are not suffering anymore so even though I'll never be able to see or speak to you again, you'll forever be in my heart. I LOVE AND MISS YOU SISTER!!! R.I.P
